Former Student Gives Research Scholarship

Randall Dawson, former University student has added a scholarship to the Kentucky Research Foundation. Dawson is president of the R. R. Dawson Bridge Company, Bloomfield, and is active in alumni affairs.

The scholarship is to be known as the J. Stanley Dawson Scholarship to honor an uncle of Randall Dawson, who received the B.S.C.E. degree from the University in 1910. He served as district engineer for the Kentucky Department of Highways from 1919-1921, and as maintenance engineer from 1921-24.

The scholarship is for students interested in the field of civil and highway engineering. It will follow the same pattern as scholarships of the Highway Department except that the summer periods of work will be with the Dawson Bridge Company. The recipient will be awarded $500 during his freshman year.

Additional information concerning the scholarship may be obtained from the College of Engineering.

Dr. Inman To Address IR Club Meeting

Dr. Samuel Guy Inman, authority on Latin American relations, will address a meeting of the International Relations Club at 4 p.m. Tuesday in room 128 of the Student Union Building. His topic will be "The Decline And Fall of The Good Neighbor Policy."

The International Relations Club was recently reorganized on the campus after having been inactive for several years.

Dr. Amyr Vandenbosch discussed the North Atlantic pact at a meeting last Tuesday. John Robert Cox was elected general chairman of the group, and Peggy Elmore was named secretary.

New Guignol Tryouts Scheduled For Sunday

Tryouts for the next Guignol production, "George Washington Slept Here," a comedy by Moss Hart and George S. Kaufman, will be held at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Guignol Theater.

Roles in the cast include eight parts for men, eight parts for women, and one for a boy 10 to 12 years of age. Wallace Briggs, director, has announced that many of the roles can be filled by University students.

Language Meet Planned In April

The second University of Kentucky Foreign Language Conference will be held on the campus, March 31-April 2. The theme will be "Foreign Languages in Democratic Education."

Some ninety lectures and papers distributed in sixteen sessions and sections will be offered, with more than one hundred persons from twenty-three states and the province of Ontario participating.

The lecturers will be Dr. M. Blackmore Evans, professor emeritus of German at Ohio State University; Dr. Walter U. Kaufers, professor of education and specialist in foreign language curricula at the University of Illinois; and Dr. H. M. Pollat, professor of Latin at Wake Forest College, North Carolina.

Students To Sponsor New Poetry Magazine

Three students of the University of Kentucky and two from Transylvania are sponsors of a new bi-monthly magazine of short poems to be called "The Review of Contemporary Poetry."

The University students are Keller Dunn, James Jordan, and Clem Cooker; and those from Transylvania are Hy Bates and Murry Cohen.

The publication will contain poetical works of any writers who wish to submit their manuscripts. The primary objective of the magazine, according to Dunn, is to give young poets an opportunity of having their work published. Similar projects at Vanderbilt and the University of the South have proved very successful, he said.

The first issue of the magazine will appear next month.

Annual Job Conference Closes Senior's Week Of Interviews

University of Kentucky seniors, many with an eye toward June graduation, have wound up a period of interviews with prospective employers at the University's fifth annual job conference.

Sponsored by Mortar Board and Omicron Delta Kappa, leadership societies for senior women and men respectively, the conference brought to the UK campus representatives of business and industrial concerns who annually scan the nation's crop of college and university graduates in search of promising employees.

Conference Began Tuesday
The conference got underway Tuesday afternoon with group meetings at which each company representative outlines his organization's activities and objectives and the qualifications it seeks in hiring new personnel. Interested students arranged personal interviews with the talent scouts Wednesday and Thursday.

Exhibits from many of the concerns represented at the conference were on display on the main floor of the Student Union Building.

One-half of the scholarship will be paid to the student in October and the other half in March. Continuation of the scholarship for the second semester will be based on a satisfactory record during the first semester.

These scholarships are designed to help students who show promise of becoming leaders in the fields of agriculture and home economics, and to provide financial assistance for those who might not be able to attend college without this help. All applicants must be residents of Kentucky who are interested in completing a four-year curriculum in agriculture or home economics, and should be farm residents.

All applications must be mailed to L. J. Horlacher, College of Agriculture and Home Economics, University of Kentucky, Lexington, Kentucky, not later than April 15, 1949.

Freshman To Receive Danforth Scholarship

A Danforth Leadership Training Scholarship will be awarded to the most outstanding agricultural freshman this summer, according to an announcement by the College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

School Children Plan To Present Fieldhouse Mural

A mural of the 1948-49 basketball team to be given to the Wildcat squad by school children of the state will probably be installed in the Memorial Fieldhouse-Auditorium, John T. Gillig, architect for the building, has announced.

The plan is subject to approval by University officials.

The mural, honoring the current team, will be made from a photograph of the squad, in playing uniforms.

The tentative plans are to install the 40 x 224 foot mural in the west foyer of the $3,400,000 fieldhouse, Mr. Gillig stated.

The glazed tile walls of the west entrance foyer will be recessed to allow for installation of the mural which could be suitably framed, perhaps in aluminum, and covered with protective glass, he added.

The memorial inscription will denote that the mural was given to the squad by school children, who will purchase it with proceeds of a penny campaign being conducted in the state now.

Contributions for the Wildcat homecoming celebration may be sent or taken to the Lexington Herald-Leader, Short and Market; WKLX, the Phoenix Hotel; WLAP, Walnut and Short; or Williams Drugstore, Limestone and Main Streets.

Prof. Kuiper Will Deliver Annual Lecture

By Nell Blair

Prof. John Kuiper, this year's recipient of the Distinguished Professor Award, will present the annual Arts and Sciences lecture at 8 p.m. March 31 in Memorial Hall.

Prof. Kuiper, head of the department of philosophy, was selected for the distinguished professorship by a secret vote of the faculty of the Arts and Sciences College in December. His lecture will be "Creativity in Nature and in Man."

The honor, inaugurated in 1944 as a means of recognizing "outstanding accomplishment in a chosen field," is the highest citation for scholarly achievement that the Arts and Sciences faculty awards its members.

Came To UK In 1929

A native of Grand Rapids, Michigan, Prof. Kuiper joined the faculty of the University in 1929 as associate professor and acting head of the department of philosophy. In 1931 he was appointed head of the department and given the rank of full professor.

Prof. Kuiper received the A.B. degree from Calvin College in 1921 and the M.A. degree from the University of Michigan in 1922. He served as instructor of philosophy at the University of Michigan and the College of the City of Detroit.

Prof. Kuiper is a member of the American Philosophical Association, and Association for Symbolic Logic, the Southern Society for Philosophy and Psychology, the Kentucky Academy of Science, and the American Association of University Professors.

Served On Forum Board

He has served on the board of directors of the Lexington Public Forum and is former vice president of the Central Kentucky Community Concert Association.

The distinguished professorship lecture is being presented in connection with the National Foreign Language Conference being held on the campus from March 31-April 2.

Team Will Leave Tomorrow For East

By Dudley Saunders

Kentucky's Wildcats leave tomorrow by plane at 10:55 a.m. for New York City, where they will open the defense of their NCAA crown against unscouted Villanova, Monday night.

Should Coach Adolph Rupp's Southern Wildcats defeat the Eastern Wildcats, Kentucky would then meet the winner of the Yale-Illinois game, also cased for Monday night. That game for the Eastern NCAA title will be played Wednesday. The Eastern champ will then journey across the continent to Seattle, Washington to meet the Western champion for the national title on Saturday.

First round play in the Western division pits Hank Iba's slow-breaking Oklahoma Aggies (20-4) against Wyoming, (22-4) and Arkansas's oft-beaten Razorback's (11-10) against Oregon State (19-9) the Pacific Coast champ. The winners of these two games play off in mid-week for the Western division crown.

Official National Tourney

The Aggies won the crown two straight years, in 1945 and 1946, and Kentucky won it last year. The NCAA event is THE official national tourney.

Following their amazing upset loss to unsung Loyola of Chicago Monday afternoon, the Cats returned to Lexington for the rest of the week. The 67-56 defeat halted the Cats' 21 game winning streak, which started right after Kentucky lost to St. Louis in the Sugar Bowl finals, New Year's Eve.

During practice sessions the last week, Rupp was running Jim Lane in a first string forward berth, along with Wah Jones. Groza is still at the pivot and Barker and Beard at the guards.

Concerning the Loyola tragedy, Rupp stated "Our defense went to pieces against them, but why it happened, or how, I can't explain." The Loyola coach told reporters, that his Ramblers "beat Kentucky on rebounding." So defense and rebounding were the important factors in the Cat loss, and thus were strongly stressed in practice this week. The Cats, unable to score on (Continued from Page Seven)

Only YWCA members who have paid their membership fee will be eligible to vote.

SUB To Take Poll On Dance Opinion

A poll will be taken Monday in the SUB to see if students want dancing to juke box music in the SUB.

Tables for the poll will be set up outside the grill and cafeteria. If students vote "yes," they will indicate a preferred time, selecting one of the three following periods: 9-11 a.m., 2-4:30 p.m., and 7-10 p.m.

Winter set in Monday night when four students donned heaver-skin (and one leopard), gathered up ear-muffs and sled and attended the Guignol production of "Winterset." Cavorting on the steps of the Guignol Building are (left to right) George Tuggle, George Trotter, Charles Whaley, and Jack Barrowman. The Lexington weather bureau reports that snow which fell later that night was definitely due to atmospherical phenomena.

Simplified Reading Is Achieved With Library's New Micro Reader

By Melvin Mitchell

An average television set has nothing on the Margaret I. King Library. The library has no television set but they do have a micro library reader.

The micro library reader is the lazy man's way to read a book. All you have to do is insert a microcard three by five inches containing the material of at least eighty-five pages of an average book, into the television-like machine and sit back, relax, and read. Page turning is accomplished in both directions by a single one-hand control.

The reading of microcards has to be done by reflected light, not transmitted light as with microfilm. This means a great deal more light is required. This light, concentrated on a tiny spot of paper, means more concentrated heat also. The optical problem is solved by a combination of lenses and mirrors and the heat problem is solved by a small automatically operated blower unit.

The library can now buy microcards instead of rare books; microcards are much cheaper.

In the future the library may consist only of cards; or better yet, maybe we will be able to carry our books in our pocket. Then again, maybe the progress of science will advance even more and make it possible for comic books to be published on microcards.

No Change in Temperature

The unbelievable happened to most students Monday afternoon when the Wildcats lost, but an adequate reflection of student sentiment was found in the tophheavy winner of a local radio musical poll the next morning. The winning song was overwhelmingly voted, "O. S. On, U. of K."

Student opinion, aside from sympathy for the team's disappointment, was 100% a rabid "we'll show 'em" attitude about the NCAA tournament which opens Monday.

And certainly nobody doubted for an instant the firm and accurate conclusion reached some months ago; that this UK team is the best in the country, that it is the greatest in the history of the University anywhere else. And with even breaks, it'll win the NCAA.

Why Not Keep Cool

Since printing three articles by Ingeborg Dederling, a German girl who is studying at the University, the Kernel has received several letters upbraiding the author and calling the articles "somewhat subtle but futile attempts on the author's part to evoke sympathy for the German people and instill in us a feeling of remorse for 'ransacking Germany,'" or "most outrageously biased examples of Nazi propaganda, still perpetuated."

Most of the students who wrote the letters—Martin Lloyd Norton, Irving Milman, Albert Balows, James Wilson, and Frank Adler—mention having been in the armed forces, and they have had very similar and strong opinions on Miss Dederling's articles.

It is absurd to believe that the Kernel is acting as an agent for any Nazi propaganda.

The feature editor (also a veteran, incidentally) asked Miss Dederling, a journalism student, to write a few articles that might give students some insight into the viewpoints of one of UK's many foreign students.

The Kernel is certainly not going to get involved in any sort of international incident in the sub-basement of McVey Hall. But it does believe that a little understanding, of foreign students or anything else, will accomplish a lot more than name-calling and generalizations.

Just Say Yea Or Nay

The Student Union Board is going to put a polling box in the SUB hall next week, in an effort to find out if anybody is interested in its new plan.

The idea is to provide a place to dance, to juke box music, at various hours during the day. If you want this, the Board wants you to say so, but if you don't, the Board emphatically wants you to say you don't.

It seems the Board has learned a lesson from the long series of dances, all failures, it has gone to the trouble and expense of putting on. Before it inaugurates any new plan, it wants to hear student opinion on the matter.

Prof. Trimble Named To Advisory Council

Prof. Ernest G. Trimble of the department of political science was recently appointed by Gov. Earle Clements as one of the four public members of the Unemployment Insurance Advisory Council of the Department of Economic Security.

The other eight members of the 12-man council are equally divided between labor and employers.

Dance Class Planned By Cosmopolitan Club

The dance class sponsored by the Cosmopolitan Club will meet at 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, beginning March 24. A regular class will meet tonight at 7:30 p.m.

The class is open to the public and no admission fee is charged.

The traditional Saturday night barn dance did not originate in a barn. Early settlers entertained their neighbors with "bran" dances.

"Yes, I know the NCAA starts Monday—but when's Monday in this town?"

Cookin' With Gaskin

"Why do women live longer than men?"

"The bunsen burner brigade can stop annoying laboratory mice looking for an answer to this question because a New York writer has already found it. 'The average woman outlives the average man because she wants to—and he wants her to. That's all there is to it. It's a matter of pride, civilization, and erosion.'"

"Some scientists believe that man has a shorter life span because he lives more dangerously."

"Then there are those who hold to the tradition that a man goes to work, marries and sets up his idol in an ivory tower—usually a kitchenette. Because he takes pride in serving his idol, the average male races his motor all his life to earn money to keep her in furs, food, and flattery. And he enjoys it, too."

"The final reason why men die younger than women is—pride. All his married life the husband has told his wife, 'Dear, I couldn't live without you! Life would be worth a thing.' When he grows older he has to depart from the scene first or admit to himself he's nothing but a darned liar. So off he goes, and both he and his wife know he's lived up to his word."—Daily Athanæum.

Letters

Dear Editor:

This is the first time I have aired my opinions in the Letters to the Editor. But I believe that this is once I should.

Today the Wildcats came home from the NIT. I have never seen so small a crowd as that which greeted the boys when they came home. When they are winning everybody goes and sees the team but when they lose hardly anybody tries to welcome them. I do not think that this is fair. Just because they lost one game why should anybody not honor the boys. This is not fair. Even the best teams lose a game once and awhile. Well, it is the same for these boys.

I admire those few who braved the cold weather and welcomed the boys home. They are the true Wildcat rooters.

In a couple of days again the team leaves for New York. I think sort of mass slaughter, so to speak, by eating 48 oysters at one sitting. The Phi Sigs, not to be outdone, produced a candidate who did away with 76 raw ones in only 10 minutes. The Michigan Daily, trying to keep up with the news, was represented by a sports editor who consumed 12½ hamburgers in 35 minutes. (The editor was a female!)

that everyone should get out and wish the team good luck. This backing helps the team more than anything. They are a grand bunch and they deserve everything they can get.

I remain a Loyal Wildcat Rooter.

Dear Editor:

For a minute, when I started reading J. Bruno Halifax's letter about the Kentuckian in last week's Kernel, I was stricken with the thought that we might be subjected to investigation by SGA again.

When I finished, however, my fears were gone. I know that Mr. Halifax is just another crank. Like that graduate student (an English major, I think) who pops in the office every day or so and seowlingly demands his copy of the yearbook, which, in his own quaint words, he has "bought and paid for."

I hope no one got unduly excited over Mr. Halifax's letter. If anyone did, let me calm his mind by saying that the yearbook will be out the latter part of May. This is definite.

Mr. Halifax may see me at any time to discuss this matter.

Sincerely,
CHARLES WHALEY,
Editor, 1949 Kentuckian

(Mr. Halifax was worried about the 1948 Kentuckian, not the 1949 one. Someone should give him the word on this.—Ed.)

Dear Editor:

Your letter last week from Mr. J. Bruno Halifax, in which he bemoaned the non-appearance of the Kentuckian this year, is a tragic example of the attitude of many students on our campus.

It is tragic because he does not know of what he speaks. He does not keep up with campus happenings.

Surely, if he did, he would know that the 1949 Kentuckian has been out for the past three months and is now gathering dust on the bookshelves of graduating seniors and others who purchased. Already work is halfway completed on the 1950 Kentuckian and the staff for the '51 book has been named and has started to work on that edition. The foresightfulness and obvious efficiency of the yearbook staffs are in dismal contrast to Mr. Halifax's complete lack of being up with the times.

If he desires to obtain a copy of this year's book, he may purchase one at any newsstand or his neighborhood grocer's.

Sincerely yours,
DUMBARTON WILLOWS,
Editor, 1951 Kentuckian

Dear Editor:

It is our solemn belief that there is a sport here on campus which has heretofore been excruciatingly neglected. We demand that something be done about it.

We believe that provisions should be made in the Athletic Department for a hop-scotch team! Tournaments could be held similar to the present bridge tournaments, high school basketball tournaments, or bowling tournaments. Courts could be marked off on the floor of the new field house. We feel confident that Coach Rupp wouldn't mind, because it would give opportunity for more student participation in sports.

After all, hop scotch is an up and coming sport on campus. A tournament is already underway in Room 224 of the Funkhouser Biological Sciences building.

Hop scotch develops leg muscles, breath control, throwing ability, and general stamina. Also, it builds up ability to draw a straight line. And we all know that perception is important in obtaining a well-adjusted life.

Therefore, we deem it essential that untiring effort be made to promote this higher type sport.

We will appreciate any help which you may give us.

HE HAS BUILT A BRAND NEW CITY

The "telephone man" is mighty busy these days!

Since the war, among many other things, he has built or enlarged 2,800 buildings... scores of them large enough to fit into the skyline of a modern metropolis.

These buildings are more than brick, mortar and telephone equipment. They are jobs for thousands of men and women... more and better telephone service for millions of people... more business for the towns and cities in which they are located.

But most important of all, they are an indication of the Bell System's earnest efforts to keep up with the nation's ever growing needs for communications service.

'Letters To The Editor'

I went in to ask them to change the spelling of my middle name in the book from "George" to "Gorge," they told me they couldn't because that section had been printed. This was an obvious falsehood.

Thirdly, they are inefficient. To back up this statement, why, I even heard that they had put a boy's picture on one of the sorority pages.

But this is enough.... I am just asking, "What is wrong with them?" Surely the Board of Student Publications can find more serious-minded persons to carry on with the Kentuckian.

Vehemently yours,
EARLY G. APLEY

Dear Editor:

This is a partial reply to the letter from "Crystal Set" in the latest Kernel, about installing FM radios in the dorms. A good idea. Let's put in one of those useless time-wasters known as a petition.

Also if he knows a graduate CE (communications) student, Crystal Set might be able to talk said student into designing him a converter for the FM band. Close as we are, a one-tube converter would do the trick nicely, for about ten bucks.

Next question: who's got ten bucks?

CQ

Dear Editor:

All of us have heard of a term paper but we have as yet to see one similar to the "invader" which was given us in Sociology 109.

TIPS ON TOGS

By Link

BELMONT - - - rings the bell (pardon the attempted pun but it's the gospel truth) for spring suit styles. Belmont Suits have always been known as leaders in the fashion parade and this year they are about two blocks ahead of the band. Their "Glade Lounge" model is one of the most knocked out deals I have ever cast these weary eyes upon. J. P. Hancock, of Phi Delta Theta, fraternity, purchased one today. He picked out a single breasted, powder blue gabardine of the very new four patch pocket style with hand stitched lapels. Don't forget gentlemen, Easter is descending upon us by leaps and bounds and when you squire the current "Little Lady" around that day - will you look like something she just brought along to open the doors and pay the checks? - My unasked for suggestion is - latch on to your spring togs now while the selection is fresh!

LAVENDER BLUE - - - dilly dilly - - - Esquire socks have actually sent us some new spring socks of lavender blue, fashioned after the song hit - this light weight, ribbed sock also comes in pale pink, yellow, blue and grey - they blend perfectly with the pastel shaded shirts that are now so popular, and I believe pastel shades will gain more and more popularity as the season advances.

ENCORE - - - to those of you who bought "Mirror-Test" rayon summer suits last summer, and know how wonderful they are—I am passing along the tip that we are receiving them again this year, and to those of you who do not have any - well, when old Sol turns on the heat you just can't beat a "Mirror-Test" suit for coolness, appearance and pocket book ease... incidentally they are now in stock -

P. S. POWER OF THE PRESS - - - I got my top hat back. Thanks bud, very much!

Local Ham Radio Operators Engage In Bull Sessions Of Global Scope

By Bill Rafferty

There are no spatial limitations to student bull sessions these days, for students are taking to the air. If you hear these words cutting in on your favorite program "calling CQ, calling CQ, this is W4TFG, W4TFG, fixed portable, Lexington, Kentucky, calling CQ...." you are in on the makings of a very extensive bull session which may be reaching to any point on the globe. Yes, it's ham radio and two students are going at it in a big way.

Most every afternoon, on the third floor above the Tavern, you will find two students before two transmitters, contacting their home towns, or some far away place. Soon the regular gang begins to flow in—boys who live in or near the Apartments, and with the room foggy with cigarette smoke, the mike is passed around so everyone gets in on the conversation.

What do they talk about? Everything which ordinarily goes into bull sessions. One has to be careful, however, what is said over the air, but what can't be said over the air is "batted about" by those who are not on the mike or when the other ham is talking back.

Describe Southern Traditions
There's plenty to say after one gets warmed-up to talking. First, greeting and information about the persons are exchanged, and then someone may start giving the low-down on a person in the room. One who called himself "Colonel," huh, extolled the merits of a Southern gentleman and described the belles of the Blue Grass, the fine bourbon and the beautiful magnolia trees of Lexington. However, the Colonel was brought to talk on the magnolia trees.

The two students who own and operate the sets are Jim Martin and Jene Leslie of Harlan and Pikeville respectively. Jim, a commerce student, is licensed to operate the sets which are located in his room. Jene owns the sets but has not yet received his class-A license.

The two ham operators met by radio last summer when each was home working his rig. When they came to the University they brought Jene's transmitters and receiver.

Jim says he became interested in ham radio in 1938, and built his first set in 1940. In 1941 he satisfied the requirements for license and built his first set for operation.

Jene says he just happened to step into the radio shop while serving in the Navy and became interested in radio. While on duty in the Pacific he built his first set.

More Power Than WLEX
The sets which are being used here were built by Jene. It took him about eight months to complete the large transmitter which can contact almost any point in the world. It has about twice as much power as station WLEX. "We have 2000 volts from a stepped-up power line. Enough to burn you to a crisp," commented Jene. The smaller set is used most of the time.

They can talk to their mothers by the way of ham operators located in their home towns. When they contact their towns the hams, who are good friends of Jene and Jim, call their homes by telephone. By amplifying a voice over the telephone one can pick up the sound through the radio. Jim's mother listens almost every day on his broadcast frequency with a short wave receiver and if there is any message she wishes to send, calls the ham operator to contact Jim. Ham operators take a lot of pride in their hobby, Jim points out. Every operator has cards with his "call letters" and all other pertinent information, and when operators contact each other for the first time, cards are exchanged. Some hams make a hobby of collecting cards.

Besides ham radio being a lot of fun and expensive, one gets to know people all over the world. When you happen to be passing through the town of someone you've met on the radio, you usually stop for a visit, and a warm friendship may develop.

When asked if they have had any proposals for marriage or have made any dates by way of ham radio both Jene and Jim merely grin. Jim finally mentioned about contacting one girl ham operator in South Carolina who sent him a picture, but....

Traffic Cleared First

There is a practical side to this hobby, says Jim. If there are any important messages anyone wishes to send—especially to anyone in the State he can usually get them through. This is a very serious part of the hobby, for operators all over the world handle messages in the form of what the hams call "traffic." Traffic is cleared first before anything else is transacted.

It is very easy to determine the location of a ham after once you pick him up. Each country has an identification letter and, in the case of the United States, the country is divided into districts with a given number. For instance, if you hear call letters such as Jim's W4TFG, the "W" indicates the United States and the "4" indicates the Southeastern district. "TFG" are his own call letters.

Most of their contacts are within the States, but places as far away as Australia have been reached.

In contacting a station in Mexico a few days ago, Jim talked to a Mexican who had attended college in the States. The Mexican not only helped him with his Spanish assignments, but offered to arrange a schedule whereby they could do the assignments every day.

Gets Kentuckian In Germany
"You've got to be careful what you say over the air; you don't know who is listening," Jim remarked. "The other day I picked up a ship off of Gibraltar and learned quite a bit. Just like the other day when a friend of ours was listening to a Kentucky soldier in Germany talking to Portugal, he didn't know someone in Kentucky was listening, but he was thrilled when he was contacted from his own state. I think our friend called his (soldier's) parents long-distance and let him talk to them."

Jim is not the type of fellow who wants to interfere with the other person's radio programs. He's a very conscientious and submissive sort of a fellow when it comes to interfering with rights to the airwaves. He explains that if anyone will tell him when he interferes with their electrical appliances, something will be done to alleviate the trouble.

The interference Jim causes here is minor compared to that back in

UK Graduate Finds Swiss Papers Differ In Many Ways From Ours

By Earl L. Conn
Newspaper work is pretty rough in the United States but it is much rougher in Switzerland.
At least this is the way Crawford Ferguson, graduate of the UK journalism department, is finding work as managing editor of the Swiss Reporter, English language weekly published in Geneva, Switzerland. He described the problems in a letter to Dr. Niel Plummer, head of the UK journalism department.
One of the first difficulties occurred when the Swiss government granted its permission to print the paper but refused to allow its sale. This problem was no sooner solved than the travel editor of the paper, an Austrian displaced person, was declared persona non grata and was almost thrown out of the country.
Translator Important Man
One of the most important persons on the paper's staff is the translator. Much of the material for the paper is written in other languages and must be translated into English.
Ferguson's duties are many and varied on the Reporter. He covers American and British consular offices in Geneva in addition to serving part time as proofreader, make-up editor, copyreader, advertising solicitor, and sports editor.
In his spare time, Ferguson attempts to teach the members of the staff some principles of journalism.

American style. He said Swiss laws are rarely followed and that "a man can be accused of murder and get away with it," something strictly taboo in America.
Swiss Skeptical Of Ads
He added that Swiss businessmen are skeptical about the value of advertising in the papers. Soliciting advertising is extremely difficult, he said.
Swiss printers are slow, he said, and know very little about American type faces.
Ferguson graduated from the University of Kentucky last August and is doing graduate work at the University of Geneva.

Increased Study Of Philosophy Shown By American Students

Since the war American college students have shown a steadily increasing interest in the study of philosophy, according to Dr. John H. Meizer, assistant professor of philosophy at the University of Kentucky.
This change is not due to any basic change of student attitude, he said, but is explained by a widespread fundamental change in teaching methods. Chief change noted by Dr. Meizer in a nationwide study of philosophy teaching methods in which he is currently engaged is that the historical approach to study of the subject is being replaced by more modern methods.
Philosophy teachers are recognizing more and more, he said, the importance of making their courses a practical approach to the solution of life's problems. Large numbers of college students are becoming conscious of this and consequently are flocking to philosophy classrooms the country over.
Dr. Meizer's survey, financed through the University of Kentucky Research Fund, is concerned primarily with classroom teaching techniques. It covers methods used in teaching introductory philosophy courses, logic, ethics, and historical courses. The study will be published later in book form, he said.
The UK professor has been requested to make a report on his survey, not yet completed, at a special meeting of the American Philosophical Association to be held in Columbus next fall.

The modern telephone directory was invented by Piedra Caliente, who accompanied Columbus on the first voyage to America.

So You Don't Like The Weather? Well, Just Wait Around A While

Up in Yankee land they have a philosophical way of looking at a nasty snowstorm with the temperature huddling down in the sub-zero zone. "We may as well have it now and get it over with," is their morbid point of view.

Most UK students took a look at the past week's see-saw weather between winter and spring and wished that if they couldn't have it and get it over with, at least the climate would decide to go one way or the other.

Sloshing along the snow covered sidewalks past the Union building Tuesday, a season-minded student announced, "I don't mind it snowing now, but when March 21 comes along I want it to warm up and stay that way."

Seasons Need Order
Looking under a radiator in the Social Science building, we got a comment from an aspiring political scientist: "If we can have winter and spring in order, that's okay. But it's idea of them taking turn about every other day is getting me down."

Of course a pun was in order and Dudley Saunders came through with the observation that the whole business was "sno good".

Spring flowers are also being frustrated. A few crocus blooms popped up and the jonquils made a one-day stand before deciding that they had their signals switched.

And what looks more dejected than a robin, the herald of Spring, sitting in a snow drift begging worms?

The US Weather Station at Bluegrass Field said the average temperature for this time of year should be about 44 degrees, and that the average is hitting below normal right now. They promised cold weather for the weekend with rain to make the repertoire complete.

Bermuda High Moved
It seems that the Bermuda high pressure area which wandered into the States-side vicinity and accounted for much of the mild winter in Kentucky, has finally moved back home and is drawing freezing weather down from west-central Canada, where this section's refrigeration is originated.

Reports are coming in that if the temperature keeps increasing at the rate it has in the past 200 years, obtained from the Alumni Association office at $2 per person. Up to 500 reservations will be accepted.

Kentucky Basketeers:

By Bill Samuels

Using heroes today... hardwood Kings tomorrow. That is an allegation which applies to five members of the University of Kentucky basketball team. Although they have won their spurs for varsity competition, this quintet of Wildcat understudies will have to pass a proficiency to gain first string positions next season.

This crew, consisting of Roger Day, Johnny Stough, Garland Townes, Bob Henne and Al Bruno—have witnessed most of the Wildcat court play from the bench this winter. All of these boys, with the exception of Bruno, have seen two or more years service with the Kentucky squad and both Day and Stough made the trip last year to the N.C.A.A. tournament.

For the past season, including play in both the S.E.C. and the N.I.T. tournaments, Day has posted the best record. Appearing in 18 games the Frostburg, Md., sophomore has tallied 49 points to pace the second five scoring. At the foul lane, Day is second only to Stough, who has lead the entire Kentucky team with an average of 85.7. Stough also heads the second stringers in longevity with a total of 263 minutes in 25 contests. He has harvested 38 points during the present campaign.

Scoring laurels among the remaining trio shows Townes with 31 points in 16 games, Bruno with 30 points and Henne with eight. The latter two have played in nine games each. The entire squad was paced by Day on shots from the field. Day has amassed a shooting average of 55.5, with Alex Groza being his nearest rival at 40.8 percent. Bruno ranks sixth in shots from the field.

Stough is the oldest of the five. He has just completed his third season in a Kentucky uniform. It

Roger has helped the 'Cats in many tough spots this season and was the only second string man to play in the N.C.A.A. game against Loyola of Chicago. He has played a total of 123 minutes this year and has scored 20 fielders in 36 attempts. At the charity line, Day has tallied nine times in 14 attempts.

A member of Sigma Phi Epsilon social fraternity, Roger is one of the most popular men on the campus. He is a youngster with an even disposition and always ready with a quip. His most famous remark came when being introduced to the 15,000 fans on hand to welcome the 'Cats back from the Olympic Trials tournament: "This is the best team I've ever sat on the bench for."

Hailing from the hot beds of Indiana basketball is 6'1", 165 pound Bob Henne of Bremen. Bob this season has stood out on defense at the forward posts. His scoring average is way under par as he has hit only twice in 19 shots from the field for a lowly 10.5 percentage. At the free throw line, Bob has made four tosses good in seven trips to the key hole.

The 19-year-old sophomore received his tutoring from Basketball Coach George Helm of Amundsen High School in East Chicago, Ill. For the past two campaigns, Henne was used primarily for relief roles, but he has displayed the know how Garland has hit for 10 baskets in 48 tries to average 20.8 from the field. His foul shots make up for that low field percentage as he has meshed 11 one-pointers in 20 chances. Townes is one of the best liked men on the team.

At the end of the 1948 football season, Al Bruno thought the situation over and decided he just couldn't stand the thought of doing nothing until spring football practice started, so he volunteered for a job with Rupp's cage crew. He looked so good in his try-out that Rupp kept him. Now he is one of Kentucky's biggest prospects for next year's roundball campaign.

In nine games Al played a total of 62 minutes and scored 30 points, an average of about one point every three minutes. His field goal average of an even 30 percent and his free throw average of 66.6 percent show just how potent he was during his short playing time.

At uses his 6-3, 195 pound frame to great advantage under the basket in both offensive and defensive rebounding. The 20-year old West Chester, Pa., sophomore has two more years to go, and from the looks of things he will play plenty of basketball before he leaves.

Al came to Kentucky to play football, but he has added track and basketball to his talent list. Besides being a strong candidate for one of the starting berths at End on the football team next fall, he is a better than average field man with the javelin and discus.

Oklahoma Aggies Win Playoff For Tourney Berth

Oklahoma A and M won the right to represent District No. 5 in the Western NCAA play-offs this weekend by stopping Nebraska 52-35 at Kansas City Wednesday night. Oklahoma A. and M. now joins Wyoming, Oregon State, and Arkansas in the Western play-offs. The Aggie team will meet Wyoming in the first game at 3 p.m. Friday. Arkansas meets Oregon State Friday night and the winners play Saturday for the right to meet the Eastern winner.

Bob Harris led the Aggies to their win. The A. and M. team led 21-15 at halftime and were able to stop every attempt by the Cornhuskers to take over the lead.

Harris tossed in eight field goals and four free throws for 20 points. The Aggies led 7-0 before the Cornhuskers could hit for their first point.

The famed Aggies defense once again was working to perfection as the Nebraska team hit only 11 field goals during the entire game. The Aggies dropped in 18 from the floor. This will be Coach Henry (Hank) Iba's try for his third national championship.

Nebraska gained the right to meet the Aggies in the play-offs for the fifth division berth by defeating the University of Oklahoma in their play-offs for the Big Seven Conference championship.

ROGER DAY

GARLAND TOWNES

has been said of John that he came to the University of Kentucky because as a boy he had always dreamed of playing in Madison Square Gardens. Stough, a bespectacled blonde junior from Montgomery, Ala., is a cringing guard who shines on defense, but like all eagles, he loves to shoot too.

A highly congenial and easy going guy, John is a popular student on the campus and takes an active interest in student affairs. He is a member of Phi Delta Theta social fraternity.

Not only is the six-foot, 170 pound Stough active on the basketball courts, but he holds the shortstop position on the University baseball team. Last spring John set a torrid pace for Wildcat batters by hitting a .410 clip.

Day Shows Promise
One of the more promising sophomores is set shot artist Day. Roger, who tips the scales at 170 pounds and stands 6'2", has proven himself as both a capable forward and pivot man. Several sports writers in the state have said that Day will be one of the leading candidates for a starting berth next season.

and scrappy will to play that should put him out front next year.

Only Kentuckian
The only native Kentuckian on the Wildcat second five is Garland Townes. A slick, six-foot, 180 pound sophomore guard from Hazard, Garland is a red hot defensive player and is equally good on fast breaking offensive drives. Playing in 13 games with the championship 'Cats last season, he compiled an impressive 31.8 field goal completion average to equal the average of the entire team.

Cats Dominate All-American Selections By Press Services

Kentucky's Wildcats dominate the All-American polls the same way they ruled the balloting for the nation's top team.

Three Cats won first team berths on the AP All-American quintet, and two made the AP first team.

No one bothered to check the files, but it was evident that Kentucky had set another record by placing three men on a major mythical dream-team. The AP picked Ralph Beard, Wallace Jones, and Alex Groza.

Beard and Groza's appearance on the AP team broke the record in that poll. Jones was the number one man on the AP second team.

The AP also gave Cliff Barker honorable.

On the AP team besides Beard and Groza, are Denver's Vince Boryla, Tony Lavelli of Yale, and Ed Macauley of St. Louis.

Macauley barely missed out Groza as the AP's number one man, 1735.

Beard was next with 1400, followed by Lavelli, 1357, and Boryla, 859. Jones won his second berth by a margin of 180 votes over his nearest rival. The Kentucky forward had 635 votes.

Lavelli and Macauley were the other two members of the UP team. Groza polled the most votes in the UP balloting.

And this is the AP team. First number is first team votes; the second is total votes.

Player Team
Ed Macauley, St. Louis (331)

UK Nine Meets SEC Foes In Sixteen Games

Kentucky's baseball team will play a 16-game schedule this spring composed entirely of Southeastern Conference foes.

Four four-game series have been announced with Georgia Tech, Vanderbilt, Georgia, and Tennessee. The games will be played on a home-and-home basis with each team, two at home and two away.

The season's opener will be against Tech in Atlanta, April 8 and 9. First home games will be April 22 and 23 against Georgia.

Coach Frank Moseley issued another call for players this week. Most of his veterans are tied up presently by either football or basketball, and the little practice that has been held so far has affected only a handful of players.

Bad weather forced UK baseball practice indoors most of this week. Pitchers and catchers worked out in Alumni Gym, and batting practice was held Monday evening.

Practice will be moved to the Legion Field as soon as the weather clears up, as the Wildcats prepare for their opener April 7 at Atlanta, Georgia, where they will meet the Georgia Tech eleven.

Only two and one-half weeks remain until the opening game and it appears that Coach Moseley will be hard pressed to round his squad into shape by then. Continued bad weather will limit batting practice and it is in this department where the Wildcats will need most practice.

Prospects are asked to report to Alumni gym Tuesday at 3:30. Moseley requested that no freshmen report. He stated that he wanted to organize a freshman team later on, and schedule several games for them, but at present it would be impossible.

According to Moseley, where Kentucky will play its home games is still a mystery. The diamond on Stoll Field won't be available until the end of football practice, which is between five and six weeks off. Although Legion Field will be available for practice as soon as spring conditioning and repair work is completed, it is still doubtful whether the Cats will be able to play their first home games there.

Several games with nearby Kentucky colleges may be added later on.

Three Cats Included In Look All-America

Kentucky fans had something to cheer about during this dismal week. LOOK magazine announced its three All-American teams for the season. Alex Groza received a first team berth; Ralph Beard was placed on the second team; and Wallace (Wah Wah) Jones was named to the third five.

The magazine also named district all-star teams and the three Kentuckians were placed on the South team along with Paul Walther, Tennessee, and Johnny Oldham, Western Kentucky.

The mythical teams were selected by some 200 basketball writers throughout the nation. The magazine did not announce the individual point totals of each player, however.

Who They Picked

The first team is composed of Alex Groza, Kentucky; Tony Lavelli, Yale; Ed Macauley, St. Louis; Vern Gardner, Utah; and Vince Boryla, Denver.

Second team eagles were Ralph Beard, Kentucky; Jim McIntyre, Minnesota; Ernie Vandeweghe, Colgate; Bob Cousy, Holy Cross; and Slater Martin, Texas.

Along with Wallace Jones on the third team are Dick Schnitker, Ohio State; Cliff Crandall, Oregon State; Bill Sharman, Southern Cal; and last, but certainly not least, Jack Kerris, Loyola of Chicago.

The West lead in men picked for the teams with five (Gardner, Boryla, Crandall, and Sharman) while the Middle West had four (Macauley, McIntyre, Schnitker, and Kerris). The South had three (Groza, Beard, and Jones) as did the East (Lavelli, Cousy, and Vandeweghe).

Villanova has won 22 and lost three this year. By winning their first 12 starts, they were one of the last teams to drop from the unbeaten ranks. Undeclared Duquesne handed them a 65-37 lacing, and then a few nights later was dropped from the unbeaten elites.

Lost To Loyola

The Philadelphia school's other two losses were to teams also played this year by Kentucky. In their first game after losing to Duquesne, Villanova was trampled by Loyola, 75-43. A few nights later Bowling Green (O) handed them their third setback, 57-46. Bowling Green lost to Kentucky 63-61. Since then they have won nine straight games to enter the NCAA play-offs with a great deal of support from the East.

Offensively, they are about even with Kentucky in the scoring department, having averaged well over 60 points a game, but their defensive average is about a half-dozen points higher than the Wildcats' 42 a game.

Rupp announced right after returning from New York that only 10 of his 13 squad members would make the trip to the NCAA. Who would stay in Lexington had not been decided Thursday morning.

Illini Favored

Illinois' Big Nine champions (18-2) are slight favorites to down Eli Yale (19-5) in the opener, but Kentucky has already been installed a comfortable favorite over the Villanova (22-3) quintet, which probably doesn't make Coach Rupp any too happy, since his clubs are the most often upset quintets in the nation. They haven't been rated the underdog in a game now in nearly four years, so consequently, whenever they lose, it is always an upset.

Win or lose, a great reception is being planned for the Wildcats upon their return from the NCAA by both students and townspeople, including parades, speech-making, bands and banquets.

Wednesday night he hit five straight one-handers in the second half, to pace the Chicago Stags to a 107-84 victory over the Boston Celtics.

One scribe this winter hailed him as the fastest man in professional basketball. Offensively and defensively, the Wickliffe, Ky., native has been one of the powerful Stag's outstanding men.

Breck Hall Beats K Club For Intramural Crown In Tight Battle; Delts Take Fraternity Title

By Earl Conn

Breck Hall won the University Intramural Basketball Championship Wednesday night at Alumni Gym by defeating the K Club 31-29.

Delta Tau Delta won the Fraternity championship in the preliminary game from Kappa Sigma, 43-40. Both fraternity teams had been defeated Tuesday night in the fight for the university championship.

Breck Hall led at the half 19-16. The K Club knotted the score time and again in the second half, but Breck managed to pull ahead 29-27 with two minutes to go. Bolter hit one from the free throw line to knot the game again 29-27.

With thirty seconds to go, Ayer took a long leading pass and, after taking one man aside, dropped in a close shot and Breck Hall led, 31-29.

The K Club inuffed its next shot and Breck Hall grabbed the ball with fifteen seconds left. A wild pass went into the hands of Bolter with two seconds remaining. He passed to Claiborne, but the horn sounded before he could shoot.

The Kappa Sigs led the Delts 24-19 at the end of the first half in their preliminary contest. The Delts came back strong in the last half to outscore the Kappa Sigs 25-16 to wrap up their title. Delta Tau Delta felt the loss of Wesley and Stewart via the foul route in the second half.

Beam and Brown both tallied nine to pace the Delts. Zaranka hit for 11 points to lead the Kappa Sigs, while Wesley added 10. The Kappas hit 12 out of 24 free throws while the Delts could drop only nine shots in 22 chances.

Ayer was the leading scorer for Breck Hall as he hit four fielders and four free tosses for a total of 12 points. Dunigan added 10. Odilvak scored 10 points for the K Club and Claiborne had eight. Breck Hall hit nine charity shots and muffed six while K Club dropped in nine shots out of 12 attempts from the free toss line.

PU OLD Story

DisKintucky Sports Review

— By Tom Diskin, Sports Editor —

NEW YORK CITY, March 14—This date should go down for the State of Kentucky as Black Monday for both the Wildcats and the Hilltoppers were upset in the quarterfinals of the National Invitational Tournament in Madison Square Garden before 12,592 surprised spectators.

The Cats, a 12-point favorite, lost to Loyola of Chicago, 67-56, in the season's greatest upset. In the first game of the doubleheader Western Kentucky's Toppers were taken, 95-86, by a sharpshooting Bradley University quintet.

Kentucky's loss to Loyola amazed everyone. The Chicago cagers hit 21 shots in 65 attempts for a 32.2 percent. UK, definitely off in the marksmanship, collected 21 goals in 74 tries for a 28.3 average. In the free throws, Loyola made 25 in 33 throws; the Cats 14 in 22. The winners committed 19 personal fouls; Kentucky 29.

Individual shooting averages for the Cats were: Ralph Beard, six goals in 16 tries, Alex Groza, 5 in 17 shots; Wah Jones, two in 10; Cliff Barker, five in 16; Jim Line two in six; Dale Barnstable, one goal in seven shots; Walt Hirsch none in two attempts. Roger Day did not shoot in the short time that he played.

It was largely through the excellent play of Kentucky's great little guard, Ralph Beard, that the Cats kept as close to the Red and Gold of Loyola in the second half of the game.

Ralph hit five baskets in 11 shots in the last 20 minutes of action and held his opponent, Jim Nicholl, to just five points. Nicholl made only one goal in three tries for the game.

Cliff Barker played an excellent first half, scoring four buckets in 11 flips. In the final semester, Cliff collected one for five. Groza racked up 12 tallies in the first period as he scored five craps in 14 tosses. However, after the rest stop, Big Al only got three shots at the hoop, none being good.

Jack Kerris was the big hero for the Illinois Ramblers. He hit seven for 20, plus nine free throws for a total of 23 points. In the opening round, the 6-6 junior scored 26 points as LU beat CGNY, 62-47.

Gerry Nagel made 5 in 7 plus one free throw for a total of 11 to follow Kerris. Ben Blitt, a 6-5 forward, and one of the two colored players on the Loyola team, made nine as did Ed Earle, a 6-3 forward.

Fouls were partly responsible for Kentucky and Western being upset. The UK Kats lost Groza on fouls with the score 57-54. Loyola. Wah Jones went out earlier, with UK ahead 47-46. The Harlan had was held to just two goals and two free throws in the time that he played.

Wait Hirsch also fouled out, with the count 53-50. Kentucky. At the end of the game, Barker and Line each had four; Barnstable had three; Beard committed only one.

For Western, Lavoy and Parsley were forced to leave the game with five each. Oldham was hampered with four fouls, these all coming early in the tilt.

After the Kentucky-Loyola game, Coach Hickey of St. Louis U. said "Now we've lost our incentive. We may as well go home. On second thought, I think we'll stick around and defend our title." However fate went against the Bills and Bowling Green upset St. Louis, 80-74. Sam Cornsweat, of the Sugar Bowl committee at New Orleans, was up for the tournaments. He is busy looking over teams for the next

Alas, Alack, We Didn't Bring It Back

Wildcats Fall Before Onslaught Of Determined Loyola Ramblers

Kent Hollingsworth
Madison Square Garden, New York, March 14—1 saw it.

I saw Kentucky beaten and beaten badly by a bunch of hometown boys from Loyola in Chicago.

Kentucky wasn't just off on their shooting; the Wildcats have hit less than 28 percent of their shots and still won games.

Kentucky came on the floor and the whole team seemed to have adopted an air of indifference.

Even after the game started,

they seemed to wait around for the Wildcats to start "hitting" and run away. Loyola just didn't wait around.

Ralph Beard alone stood out for Kentucky. He hustled all the way. He scored only two points in the first half because he didn't shoot; he passed to Groza and

Jones. The fans, cheering wildly for underdog Loyola, groaned loudly whenever the defensive man backed up on the Louisville

Lad. In the closing stages of the game, one fan behind me jumped up and yelled, "Don't let that man shoot! He'll beat ya by hisself!" and he almost did.

It was Beard who tied the score; it was Beard who put the Cats in front; it was Beard who played his best when the going was tough.

Not since big Jim Nolan came up from Atlanta and dumped in 30 points, have I seen Alexander the Great outplayed as in this game.

Groza has made chumps out of

Kurland, Kaftan, Boryla, Foley,

and Brannum, but not this boy

Jack Kerris.

Loyola's big pivot man played better than Big Al and that was the difference. Groza got all of his 12 points in the first half, mostly on rebounds.

Kerris had played by 11 minutes, scoring eight points when his coach pulled him out with four fouls. He was put back into the fray when Groza committed his fourth and Loyola took command.

Big Al didn't even attempt to block Kerris' pivot shot. He backed away and Kerris hooked them up there unmolested; if they missed Groza took the rebound, if they hit Groza took it out of bounds. On the offense Groza wasn't himself. He didn't even try to get in front of Kerris. Consequently Beard and Barker didn't get the ball into him.

This defeat was no complicated plot, filled with intrigue and brought about by thieving black-guards posing as referees. There are no excuses. Man for man, the Cats were probably better; but team for team, Loyola was tops at 5 o'clock Monday afternoon, in Madison Square Garden.
